

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE:

Discrete animal attractant bubbles are formed utilizing a bubble forming solution which includes a sufficient amount of a surface active agent to form the 5 bubbles and a sufficient amount of a animal attractant agent, such as natural or artificial female animal estrous, to provide the attractant characteristic of the bubbles. The animal attractant agent may be natural or synthetic extracts, oils, olfactory agents, perfumes, and fragrances
10 of plants.